

During times of crisis, the Texan spirit of service compels us to roll up our sleeves and take action. As we respond as a community to the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak, here are a few ways you can make a difference and support your fellow neighbors. We urge volunteers to screen for COVID-19 per CDC guidelines before serving and to comply with all federal, state, and local orders.

Prevent the spread of COVID-19

Follow public health guidelines, such as limiting human contact, maintaining social distance, and practicing good hygiene.

Support your local food bank

Help food banks meet rising demand by donating funds or food items. Call ahead to assess needs and drop-off instructions.

Check in on your friends & neighbors

Perform virtual wellness checks, especially on those who are elderly or isolated, via phone calls, texts, e-mail, or video chats.

Deliver meals

Help ensure vulnerable populations who are isolated or quarantined feel safe and cared for by delivering meals and supplies to their doors.

Donate to nonprofits

Keep our communities resilient by giving to nonprofits, which support vulnerable populations and are a major economic driver in our state.

Donate blood

Give blood to avoid another health crisis and ensure a lifesaving supply is available to those who need it most.

Explore remote volunteer opportunities

Give your time and skills from the comfort and safety of your own home with virtual or online service opportunities.

Donate supplies to healthcare providers

Support local health workers who are in need of personal protective equipment and cleaning supplies.
