Interview with a local band Also Us.

Also Us is a local band from Saginaw TX, consisting currently of two members David Prates on drums and Jordan Redd on guitar and vocals.

How long have you been a band?

A little under a year.

How did y'all meet?

Me and David met in middle school when I noticed he had like a picture of one of my favorite bands in his binder and it just kind of went from there.

Favorite show played?

Probably the Tooth & Nail show that happened on June 9th 2016.

Are you working on any new material?

Me and David are working on a few new songs and I've been writing every night for the past week.

How did you come up with the band name?

I was always the last picked for everything. Growing up I was never wanted to be a part of a group, and I always felt left out and I know there's a lot of other people that feel that way and go through things like that. And so the band name calls out everyone that was just like me and this is us calling out to anyone that's felt left out and just offering a welcoming community and outlet to everyone.

Biggest influences?

Joyce Manor, The Front Bottoms, La Dispute.

What made you want to play music?

To be honest when we were kids the rebellious stereotype of being a musician really drew us in and then it just got turned in to an outlet for us to just let loose and blow all our emotions out onto a stage.

Sing Street movie preview.

Sing Street is a comedy-drama that revolves around a teenage guy that starts a band to impress a girl. This movie takes place in the mid-80s in Dublin, Ireland. The main character Connor is taken out of his expensive private school and sent to a free state school that is horrible and he gets bullied often by the principal and the school bully. The bright part of his day is when he meets Ralphina who is an aspiring model. Connor decides to start a band with his classmates to impress Ralphina and get her to star in their music video. Connor eventually becomes friends with the school bully and he becomes the band's security guard.
